Walter Warr has received a letter from National Fish Commissioner Geo. M. Bowers, stating that the 100,000 black bass he applied for, to be placed in the Wheeling creek, cannot be secured this spring, owing to the commission's rule of delivering the fish only during the fall months.

VERY IMPORTANT

Is To-Day's Meeting of the Board of County Commissioners.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY SITE

Will Be Brought Up By the Committee From the Board of Education—A request Will Be Made for a Special Levy—Chamber of Commerce Committee to Protest Against Re-assessment—Tyson's successor.

A very important meeting of the Ohio county board of commissioners will be held to-day, at which some important business will come up for consideration, and the full membership of the board can be counted on to be present.

The committee of the city board of education, headed by Judge Cranmer, will appear and advocate incorporation in the levy for the ensuing year of a small special tax to provide funds with which to purchase a site for the $50,000 library building which Millionaire Andrew Carnegie announces he will give to Wheeling, provided the site is secured in advance. The board of education would gladly provide the site if it were possible, but the board can do nothing unless its powers are extended by the legislature, and the legislature doesn't meet until next winter. However, if the board of commissioners are induced to make the levy it will amount to substantially the same thing, for the same people, practically, will be paying the tax. As Mr. Joseph Speidel said recently through the Intelligencer, "It will be just throwing away $50,000 if we do not arrange matters so as to take advantage of Mr. Carnegie's offer."

Another committee that will appear before the board is the one appointed recently by President Quarrier, of the chamber of commerce, whose mission is to protest against the increased re-valuation of real estate in the city and county and to urge upon the board the advisability of having it reduced throughout the county. This is a knotty problem, even if the members are inclined to make the reduction, and it is said the only way in which reductions could be made is to have the property owners make individual applications for reduction. The chamber of commerce committee desires to have a straight-out cut of about fifteen per cent. made, but it is not seen how this can be accomplished, except through the state board of equalization and appeals, which meets soon at Charleston.

Another matter the board is to dispose of is the election of the successor of the late Otto Tyson as commissioner for Union district. This morning at 9 o'clock the Republican members of the board are to caucus, but as there are several aspirants it seems likely that a choice will not result speedily. Among the aspirants are Councilman John Beckett and Councilman M. A. Chew, both of the Third ward; Ben Higgins, Henry Zwicker, Harry L. McKown and one or two others. There are seven Republican votes in the board, and four are necessary for choice.

Death of Charles Sims.

Saturday morning, at 5:25 o'clock, occurred the death of Charles Sims, in the twenty-fourth year of his age, after a six weeks' illness with heart disease. Young Sims was a veteran of the Spanish-American war, having enlisted as a member of company K, First West Virginia volunteers, at Charleston soon after the outbreak of hostilities. He was with his regiment at Chickamauga and Columbus, Ga. He had been employed since on the Wheeling & Elm Grove as an extra conductor. The pall bearers will be Jennings, Jordan and Fritz, of the street car workers, and McCabe, Dillsworth and Manley, of the First West Virginia. At the funeral, which occurs from the family residence on Twelfth street this afternoon, the services will be conducted by Rev. S. K. Arbuthnot, late chaplain of the First West Virginia.

For the Legislature.

Jesse J. Jackson, the well known potter, who is first vice president of the national potters' organization, has announced himself as a candidate for a place on the Republican legislative ticket this year. The labor man on the ticket two years ago was Ben Connelly, of Washington district, who, it is understood, will be a candidate for re-nomination. Both Jackson and Connelly are excellent men and no mistake can be made in selecting either.
